NORFOLK — This May will be the city's 9th annual bike month and there's a full calendar of ways to celebrate.

Bike month is a regional community celebration of biking as a healthy, economical and environmentally-friendly form of recreation, city officials said.

This year the Downtown Norfolk Council joins the city, HRT's Traffix and Pace Bike Share to bring an array of bike-friendly events to downtown.

In addition to participating in the events, riders are encouraged to tag the city in their social media posts in May with #nfbikemonth and #downtownlikesbikes for the chance to win bike gear from local cycle shops.

DNC Ambassadors will be handing out prizes to anyone caught riding downtown, officials said.
