

Inside Business

The Hampton Roads Business Journal

Waterside District and The Main could be windfalls for Norfolk as 58 percent plan to spend more money downtown: IB poll

By Butch Maier
butch.maier@insidebiz.com
Mar 10, 2017

File photo

Norfolk is home to some gigantic developments that pack a wallop.

Downtown visitors plan to pack stacks of dollar bills in their wallets.

Or at least pull out their debit cards and credit cards more often.

More than 200 readers have responded to the latest InsideBiz.com poll: How will downtown Norfolk developments affect your spending habits?

With The Main, Waterside District and other hospitality venues in the works, will companies and their clients spend more or less money in the city this year?

Most said more, and nearly a quarter said a lot more.

The results so far:

- 34 percent plan to spend some more.
- 24 percent plan to spend a lot more.
- 23 percent plan to spend the same.
- 11 percent plan to spend a lot less.
- 8 percent plan to spend less.