NORFOLK — From Jan. 13 to Jan. 20, Downtown Norfolk will be offering a wide variety of dining options to please every palate for city's annual restaurant week. Participating restaurants offer a unique experience with price-fixed, multi-course dinners for $35 or $25, and lunch or brunch for $12, according to Downtown Norfolk's website.

Ring in the new year by digging into great food with your friends and family.

You can also find a full list of prices and participating restaurants at the website.

Reservations are recommended.

“The Downtown dining scene has a little something for everyone,” said Jessica Kliner, spokeswoman for Downtown Norfolk Council. “It’s a great opportunity to sample a variety of cuisines and explore other sites, the arts or attractions at the same time.”

Restaurant Week is coordinated by Downtown Norfolk Council.

Sponsors include Chateau St. Michelle, Sysco, Southern Bank, VisitNorfolk and Southern Glazers.
